

EDUCATION/YOUTH

portfolio

The Trust aimed to assist young people to continue to have access to educational and skills development opportunities despite the disruption of the earthquakes. The category focused on children up to the age of 18 years.

The Trust received advice about priorities from the Ministry of Education and the Ministry of Youth Development, but did not replicate Ministry funding.

Glenelg Health Camp (Stand Children's Services) $500,000

Stand Children's Services is a major social service charity in Canterbury working with very at risk children and their families, offering home and school based social work services, a therapeutic care and education service for children and families, and respite services for caregivers. Its facility, Glenelg Health Camp, was destroyed by the earthquakes and demolished. Stand Children's Services used its reserves, along with $500,000 from the Appeal Trust, to rebuild the facility at Glenelg Spur in Christchurch, which was officially reopened on 3 April 2014 by the organisation's patron His Excellency Lieutenant General the Right Honourable Sir Jerry Mateparae, Governor General of New Zealand. The purpose-built facility is again helping Canterbury children in need.

Note: Glenelg Health Camp was also the recipient of $5,000 funding to replace equipment lost in the earthquakes, contributed by the Vodafone Foundation Canterbury Fund.

Redcliffs Public Library Inc. $50,000

The February 2011 earthquakes destroyed Redcliffs Public Library and it was subsequently demolished. Community leaders, who had regularly identified the library and its meeting room as a priority for their local community, found a very local solution. CERA offered Redcliffs a red-zoned house free of charge while the Christchurch City Council provided the land, but relocating the house to 91 Main Road in Redcliffs, required funds. The Appeal Trust approved funds to meet the shortfall of re-location and construction costs.

Note: In 2012 the Vodafone Foundation Canterbury Fund contributed $50,000 towards rebuilding the library.
